Topic of the Month

e-Learning

MYTH & FACTS: e-LEARNING

M: e-Learning is the only way of home learning during class suspension.

F: Learning modes are diversified. Both online and offline learning should focus on:

Encouraging self-directed learning at home

Cater for students' needs and the school context

M: Teachers must have mastered advanced technology before they could effectively promote e-learning.

F: Advanced technology is not a must. Interactive e-learning can be simply achieved by:

A computer

Microphone

Web camera

Headphone

M: e-Learning is boring.

F: e-Learning can be just as exciting as any other type of learning. Teacher can mix in pretty much anything such as:

Video

Audio

Activities

Quiz and exercises

M: There's no interaction during lessons.

F: e-Learning does usually mean sitting in front of a computer and working through a lesson but that doesn't mean that teacher and students won't be able to interact!

M: Everything has to be Interactive.

F: There are just some topics that don't need a high level of interaction. Teachers can simply include things like slides of text and videos which convey all the necessary information.

M: Creating eLearning Content is Complex.

F: While you can create your own content, you can also get off-the-shelf content from the web to provide the teaching resources you needed!
